BEHIND the Scenes

1990 MARINER

MICHELLE,

welp the year is over and we're in our last week of school. I've know you and vice versa for about 3 or 4 years and it's been fun knowing ya. I still remember when me, you, bobby, James, puddin, and chris all went down to the beach and went skimmin. I got to admit that thing ya had with the cabin would have been good if there wasn't so many mosquitos because alot of people pulled up when we were leaving. I still think it would be good if we got together one night to have some fun, just as friends of course! I know I still owe ya [redacted] them 2 cases don't worry I'll get them to ya. I'm definitely gonna be seeing ya at the beach or I'll make a special visit up to your work. I don't got your ~~#~~ so give me a call and we'll party

CALL: 460-1827 love, SHAUGHN

Michelle ~

Hey, you're one heck of a unique chick, stay that way! Keep up with the Reggae bit, it suits you well. Stay weird! J/K But please, please don't take pictures next year! I'LL be sure to look for ya at "REGGAE SUN SPLASH" 1990! Have a Great Summer, but watch out for skin cancer! (on a serious note).

Michelle,

Yo-yo Chris & Bill raps! Anyway, keep on practicing volleyball and maybe you'll be as good as me, but I doubt it :)! Good in life and college, and don't break to many hearts (like you broke mine). Hope to see ya sometime this summer (especially on the court, or anywhere else :)!!!!!!!!!), and you'll have to come to our cottage in "Natres" this summer.

Kasta later,

Behind the SCENES

Pull back the curtain, take off the mask, look past what meets the eye, and see what creates an outstanding school. See the practice that goes on to create a good sports team. Look at the dedication of our clubs. Visualize the studying done by the students. A school would be just a group of students if not for the hard work that goes on BEHIND THE SCENES.

Shannon Marrion sums it up by saying, "Nobody can imagine all the hard work and effort performed by the students and staff. In my opinion, the people in our school are doing a wonderful job!"

Sometimes it is not what is seen that matters; it is what goes on BEHIND THE SCENES!

Take FIVE!

Time Out! Sit down, relax! A student's life can be very hectic. Besides school, students are involved with jobs, friends, family, fun and the list goes on. It's difficult to juggle around so many activities. "The other day I had FOUR different activities to stay after for, and I could only go to one at a time. I felt so frustrated, like I could not get anything done," exclaimed Racheal Comstock. School is not all work with no play. Students have fun throughout the year participating in events like Powder Puff Football or Homecoming activities. At times when school may seem very strenuous, it is always nice to look on the bright side . . . it's only nine months long!!

Michelle, This year has been full of surprises. It's gone from one extreme to another. I'm so excited that, I don't know what I'm saying. UUUh?! Okay, I enjoyed our beach adventures taking pics. w/a filmless camera. Next time, don't forget the film. It's good to know that u need someone to talk to about my MANY problems, your there. Our trip to Mt. Trashmore was an experience I shall not forget. Studs, would u look at em. I wish you all the best for you and wonderful LONG Summer, so I'm sure we'll see ya.

STUDENT LIFE

Kidding around during lunch, Mike Fredricks, Rob Barrett, Lee White, and Adam Blackiston pass the time.

Spirit Week '89

The time comes when every student must show their spirit. That's why each year there's such an eruption of spirit shown by the students who are truly proud of the old red and gold. "Tie Day", "Sock It To 'Em" and "Clash of the Titans", were chosen as themes for Spirit week this year.

The week started off with "Tie and Bandana Day." Students who had Bayside spirit were urged to wear bandanas. The night before, students had searched through Dad's closet or Grampa's old trunk to find the funkiest tie to show. On Tuesday, "Sock Day", everywhere you looked you were sure to find a spirited student sporting their colorful and mismatched sock. Wednesday, "Clash of the Titans Day", was a day in which students wore mismatched clothing. College day, or "Educating the Titans Day", rolled around and gave everyone a chance to display their college support. The week ended with the Pep Rally on Friday, where the mock Homecoming Court was introduced.

Homecoming '89

The 1989 Homecoming Court: John Laxa, Kim Goddwin, Steve Bloberger, Sandy Mallory, Bryan Ennis, Kelly McGinnis, Jay Jamison, Robin Ennis, Scott Hatch, Emily Brandt, Aaron McNair, Shandale Gregory, Mike Paradise, Catlin McMunn, Rick Paradise, Holly Japs, Andrew Keever, Michelle Cherwa, Doug Smith, Abby Brandt, Lashon Elliott, Dayne Reid.

It was perhaps the most enthusiastic Bayside Homecoming audience ever! Students, parents, children, and alumni gathered on a chilly October day. Nothing could dampen the crowd's enthusiasm as the Homecoming game came to a beginning.

The day started off with the Homecoming Parade, which started at Old Donation Gifted and Talented Center. Beautiful floats, adorned by attendants, traveled down Haygood Road displaying pride in Bayside, which resulted from hours of hard work and determination. They entered the stadium and circled the field to await the start of the game.

The game started with the Marlin offense having the ball. The team played excellent throughout the game. As halftime approached, the two teams were tied 7-7. Tim Carr, one of the players on the team, displayed an honorable performance.

turn to the field. Each court member and escort walked slowly down the field during halftime. Seconds later, the crowd roared as the judges announced Rose Renaud and Chuck Shoot as the 1989 Homecoming Queen and King. The court and floats left the playing field and the game resumed.

The second half of the game was crucial. The game was still tied. Bayside put on the heat, but it was not enough. In the last few seconds of the game, Lake Taylor scored making the final score 13-7.

Bienvenidos a Mexico

Over the summer, several of our students had the opportunity to explore and visit Mexico for nine exciting days. Accompanied by Miss Otter, Miss Armstrong, and Mrs. DeJarnette, seven students visited many sights in Mexico City, Guadalajara, and Puerto Vallarta. All in all, they had nothing but fun!

Among some of the places visited were the ancient Mayan Pyramids and clubs in Mexico City, the Liberated Market, and Folklorico Balletin Guadalajara, and the beaches and shops in Puerto Vallarta. Miss Otter summed up the fun by saying, "We walked our feet off!"

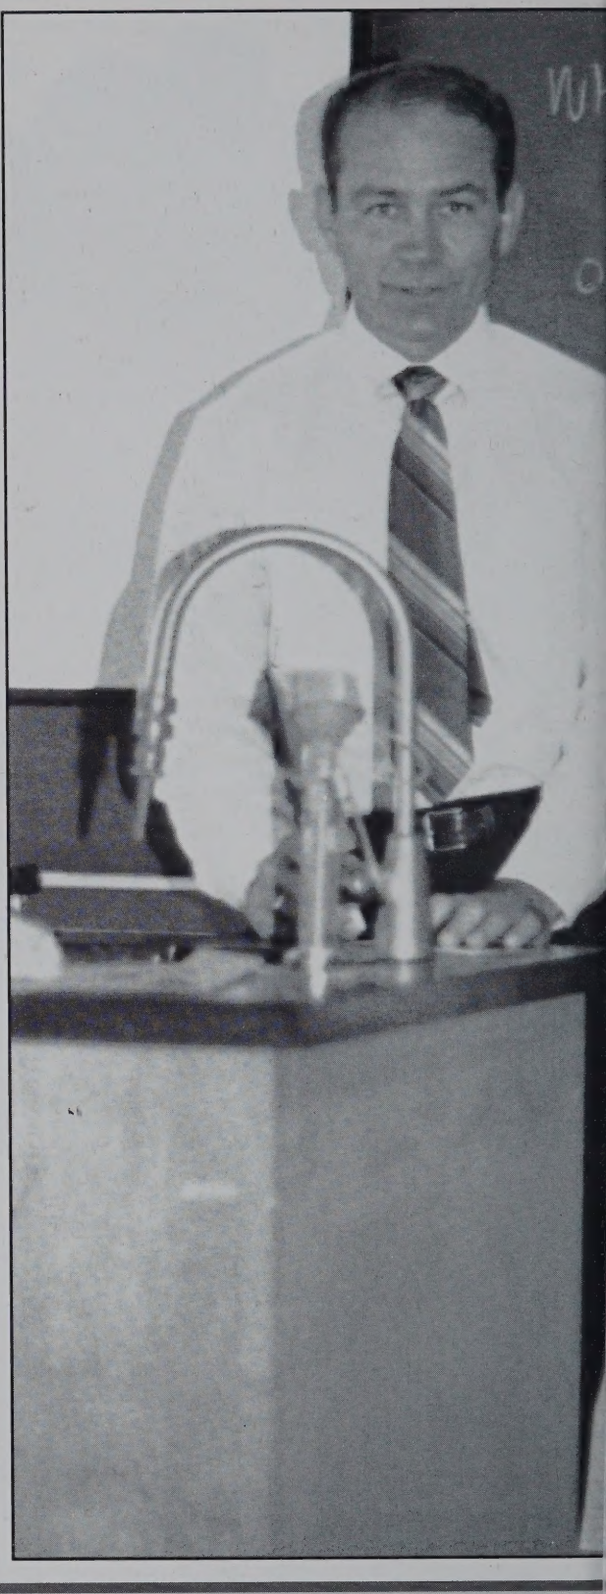
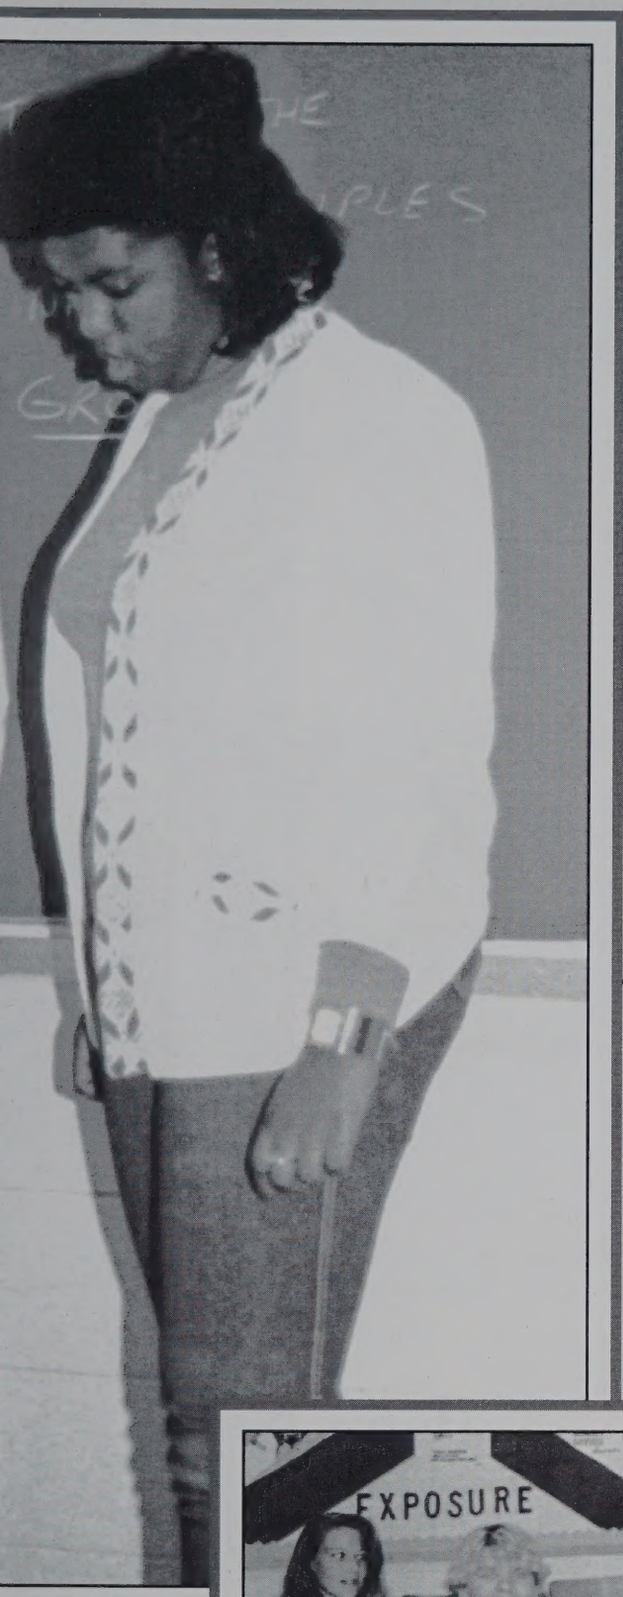
Lights ON!



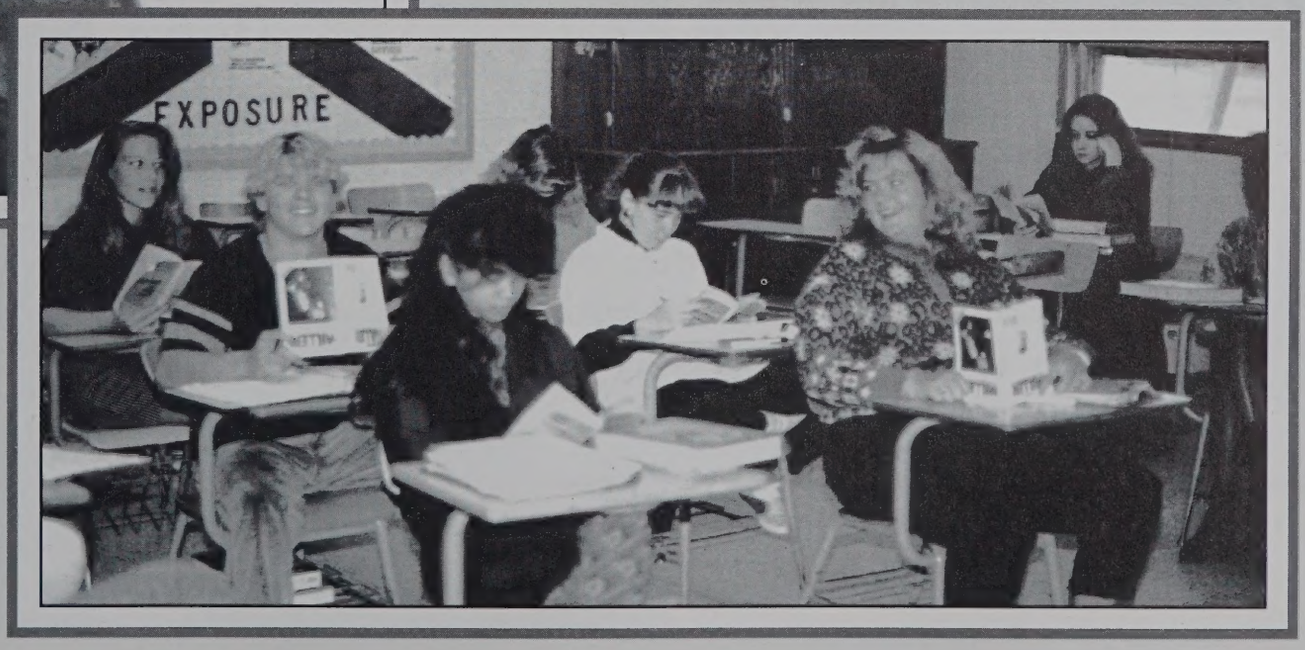
Doctor, lawyer, artist, musician, or sanitation engineer — no matter which profession is chosen, students come to school for one basic reason — to learn! Whether they realize it or not, students, are bound to learn at least one thing each day. Maybe it was Pythagorean Theorem, or just something simple like figuring out a way to get to your classes on time. All of this learning does pay off. Just ask Brett Garrison and Amanda McKenny, who were the seniors voted Most Likely to Succeed. Any student can reach their goals with a desire to learn, hard work, and dedication.



Academics

Carefully explaining to a student, Mr. George Mizenko teaches a science theory.

Students read quietly during their English class.



Fashion Merchandising

Fashion Merchandising is not just a class to learn how to shop. Students learn about advertising, fashion design, marketing, and the technicalities of buying and selling.

In February, the fashion students held a "mini-fashion show". They used Soul II Soul's "Back To Life" as the show's song. Shopping for prom dresses was the theme.

During the year, the fashion students went to Busch Gardens, saw a fashion show together, went to a clothing store in Military Circle Mall to learn details about buying and selling, and had many guest visitors.

Next year the fashion students plan to go to New York to meet fashion designers, go to major retailing stores, and shop shop shop!!!

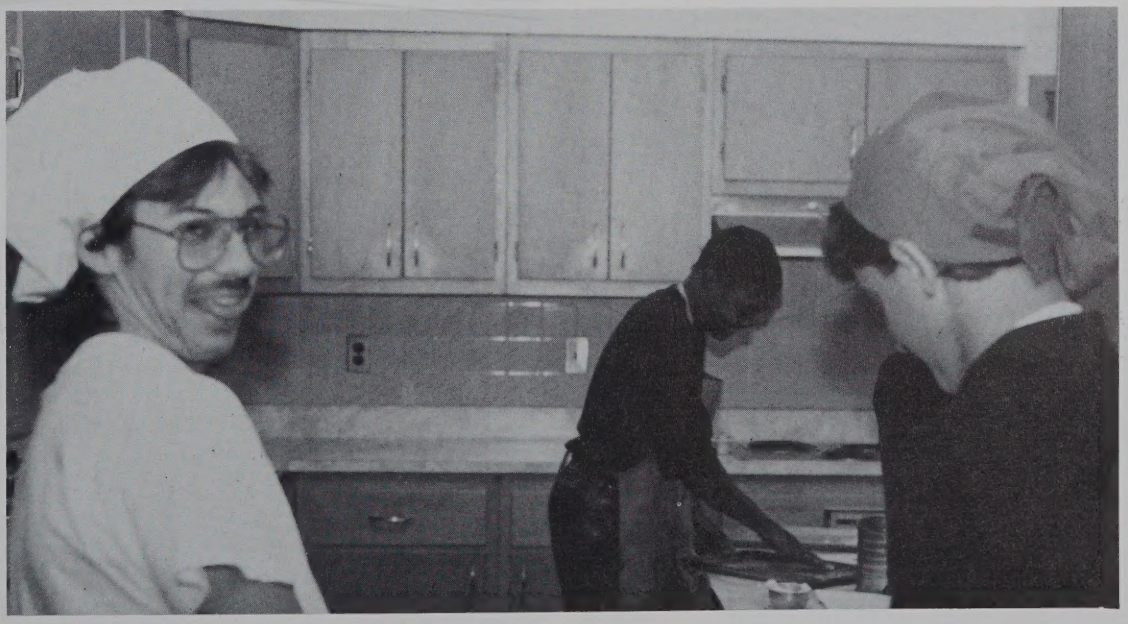
Look Who's In the Kitchen

It was not too long ago that Home-Economics was for girls only. Times have certainly changed! Today it is not at all uncommon to see a guy cooking or sewing in the Home-Ec classroom. Jeremy Jones remembers his 8th grade Home-Ec class and the shorts he made. "I would not wear them. For some reason the elastic would not work!"

Home Economics does not only teach you how to cook or to sew. There are several other courses offered that cover a broad range of topics. In Child Development and Parenting students study everything from birth to how to be a good parent. In Housing and Interior Design students study interior decorating and house plans. The realities of marriage are examined in Marriage and the Family.

As you can see, times have changed. Today Home Economics covers all aspects of living in today's society.



Come on Terry Harrison! We know you did not make those M&M's.

Dennis Caspelich is proud of his culinary skills.

American Life

Students who are taking American Life this past year were the official "guinea pigs". This was the first year this course was offered at Bayside.

American Life is a combination of eleventh grade English and Virginia & U.S. History. Since History and English coincide with one another with literacy and historic time periods, it is logical that the two classes be combined. This made it easier on the student because he was able to get the background information needed for both classes from just one class.

The students this past year were able to go on several field trips. For example, in the fall they traveled to Williamsburg. Twice during the year they visited the Chrysler museum.

Ms. Giorgi and Ms. Ashby were the teachers of this new course. Ms. Giorgi is a member of the English department and Ms. Ashby the Social Studies department. They worked together uniting the two departments to create an educational and enjoyable class.

Andrea Boone, Kori Greer and Leanne Miller use their creativity to write a story for American Life class.

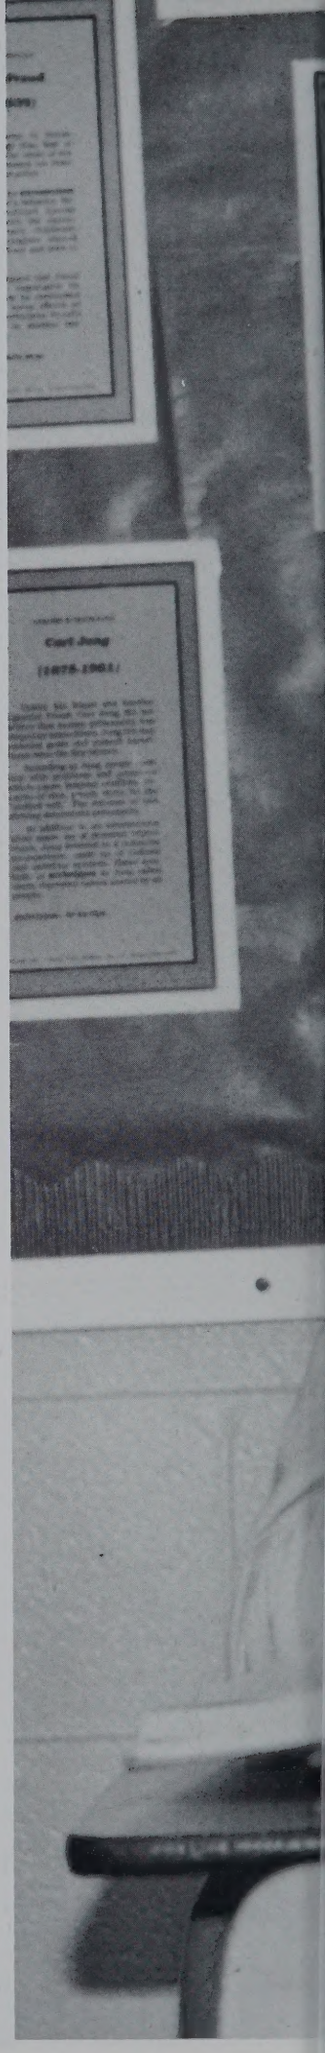
Elizabeth Knowles seems to have sampled something sour.



What Makes People Tick?

Have you ever wondered why we behave the way we do? Or why our attitudes are the way they are? The answer to these and other questions can be answered in Psychology.

In Psychology, topics such as learning, personality, and intelligence are explored using many different activities. It is not unusual to see students in this class exhibiting "strange" behavior themselves, such as writing notes on one another's back or sticking out their tongues for a taste test.

Psychology is an elective; therefore, most students take it because they are interested in learning about behavior. "I want to know what makes people tick!" commented Nancy Hansen, who is looking forward to taking it next year.

Ms. Hutsenpiller laughs at a joke during Psychology class.

Keepin' Busy In Science

In order to meet graduation requirements, students must take at least two sciences. One course must include a life science, such as Biology or Environmental Science, and another must include a physical science, like Chemistry.

The science classroom is usually a very active one. Besides the regular note-taking and listening to lectures, students are able to actively participate in many activities. Students in Physics conduct experiments to study things like force and motion or electricity. If you are taking Environmental Science you will probably find yourself taking several field trips to study the state of the environment. And of course one can always look forward to the dissection unit in Biology! Michelle Williams likes that particular unit. "I think it's interesting looking inside," Michelle commented. Jason Lefflear likes his Oceanography class because of the field trips. "I was not able to take a science this year and was extremely disappointed," commented Mark Roberts. "I miss all the interesting labs."

Ms. Maturo and Tim Joseph discuss the process of conservation momentum and kinetic energy.

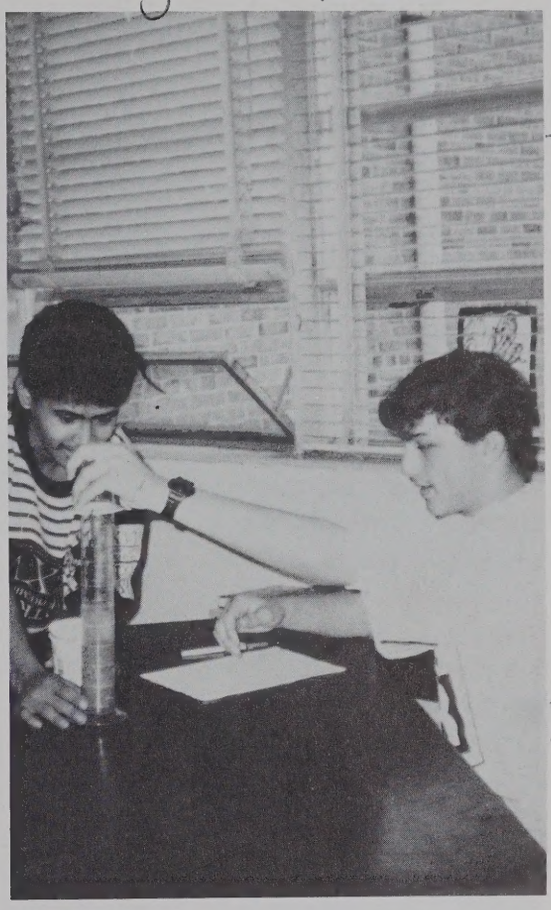
Dennis Bautista and Don Johnson enjoy experimenting with sand.



Ms. Rogers treats her fish with TLC.

Pat Scanlon and Doug Smith record the rate of motion for an experiment.

Michelle,

You're a doll. It was totally terrific sharing photography class with you. I learned that you're a very good photo Grapher -and believe it babe. You're one person I would like to get to know a lot more and see over the summer. You're truly an original and I respect that in a person. I like your glasses I can't write something as beautiful as you did - because - I am utterly alone (Beetlejuice) Now I am not making sense so I'll leave you alone. have a spectacular dreams and I may the good ones come true. Have you hugged a tree lately?

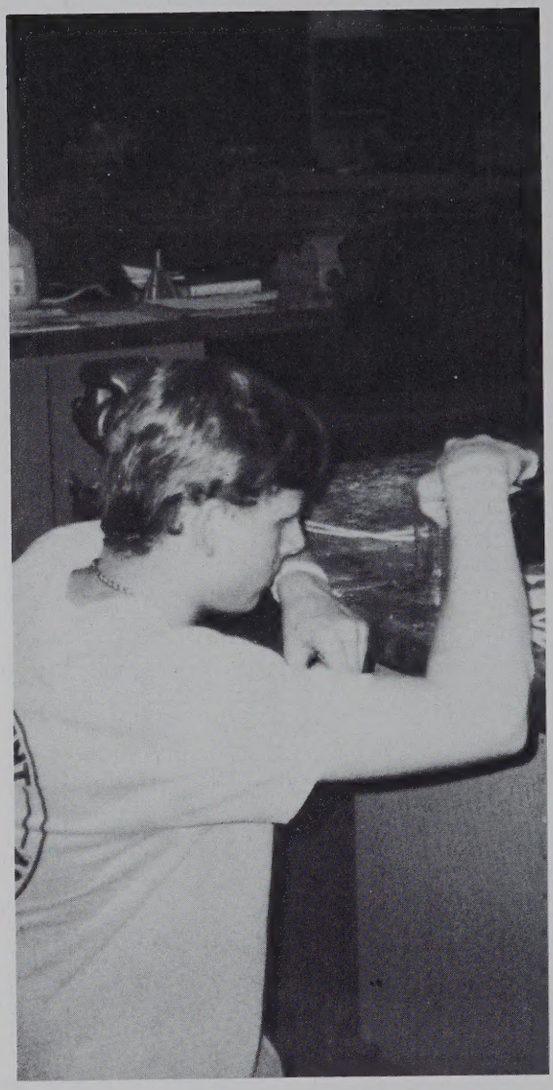
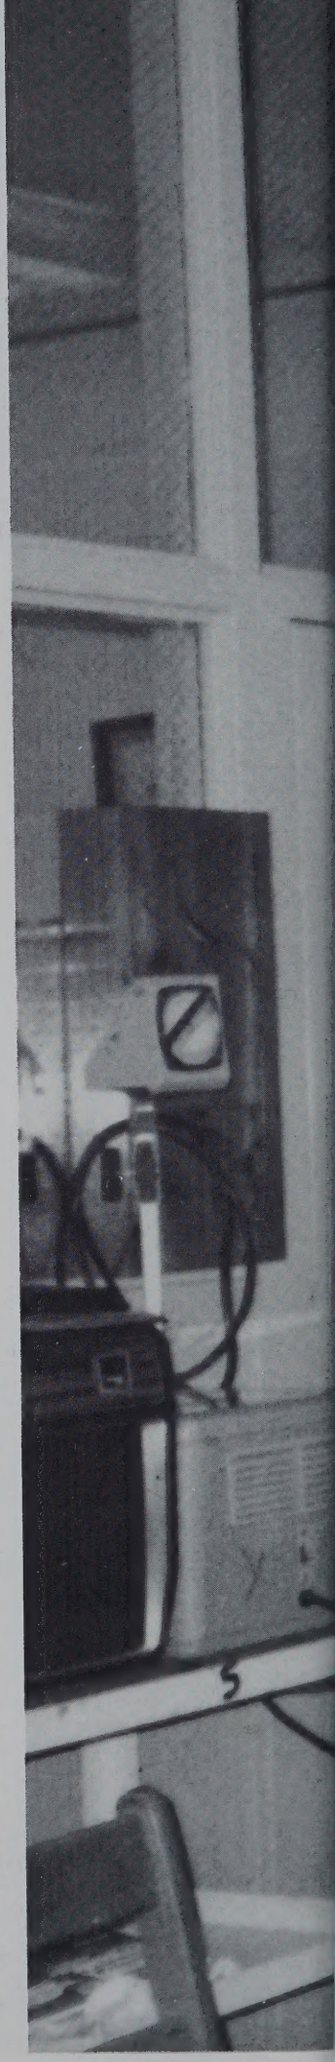
Shannon E. Marrion

Doug Smith checks for accuracy before starting to work.

Janet Altura sets up to start printing her pictures.





Rick Paradise watches closely as Mr. Williams adds finishing touches to his project.

Pat Cupit checks with Mr. Jackson about a new project.

Technology Education

If you enjoy making things, you probably would be interested in Technology Education. Some of the courses include Woodworking, Ceramics, and Printmaking. Students in Woodworking actually construct furniture. Using hand-building, slip-casting, and the potter's wheel, students in ceramics construct articles of beauty. Screenprinting is explored in Printmaking. Developing black and white film is learned in Photography. Jon Foberg, a former photography student, had this to say about the photography course, "It prepared me for working on the yearbook!"

It's Not Like Regular School

There are some students who only spend half of their day here at school. The other half is spent at the Virginia Beach Vocational Education Center. Twenty-six occupational programs prepare students for their careers and occupations.

Students who complete the program at Vo-Tech are prepared to directly enter the job market. However, many choose to continue their education at two or four year colleges.

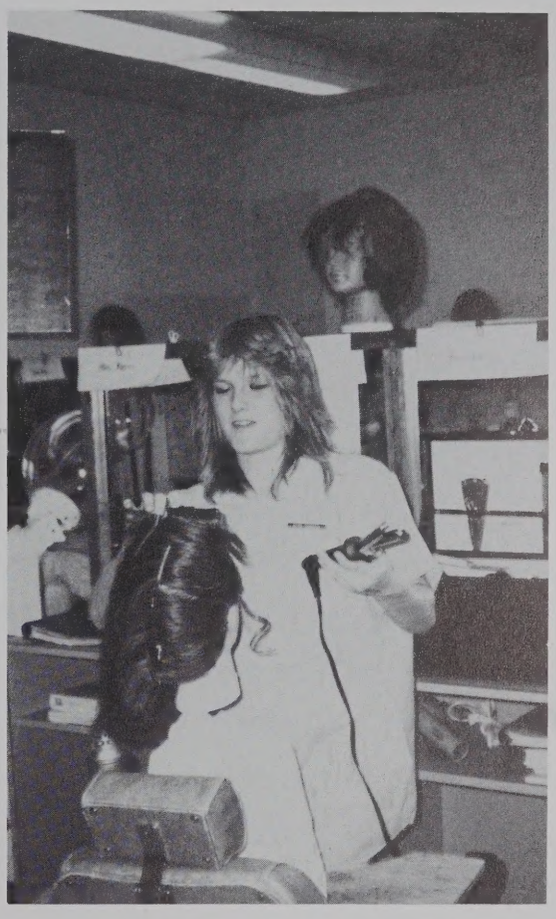
Advertising Design, Auto Body Repair, Child Care, Electronics, Computer Repair, and Practical Nursing are only a few of the many courses offered at the Vocational Education Center.

Kim Moran is enrolled in Legal Office Procedure. "I want to be either a paralegal or a lawyer. This class is like working in a law office," said Kim. "I enjoy this class. It's not like regular school."

Jennifer Perez prepares to work on a sewing project.

Eric Maynard puts the finishing touches on a van.

Becky Andrews tries out new styling techniques on a mannequin.



In Cosmetology, Kim Daughtrey learns the proper way to wash hair.

In PRODUCTION

Do you ever wonder why students linger in the building after school hours? Maybe to look at the empty hallways? Or to enjoy the stimulation of sweeping the floors? Not exactly . . . most students stay after for extracurricular activities. These clubs and organizations provide many things for the school . . . literature, entertainment, awards and spirit. The SCA collected hundreds of helpful dollars for the United Way. The Key Club decorated the halls of The King's Daughters Childrens Hospital during Halloween. The Band provided entertainment at home football games. Not many people realize the dedication, hard work and long hours behind the clubs.

Hours of Production

It was a long, tedious year for the 1989-90 Mariner staff. They started the year with over twenty members, but quickly dwindled down to about eight. Of those eight, many had never worked on a yearbook before this year. Even with such a new staff, they survived.

When asked to summarize the year, staff members had this to say: Angie Comstock: "I will always remember the long hours and hard work it took, but the finished product proved to me that it was worth it all. No pain, no gain!" Jason Brand: "Bye! I'm leaving." Carol Mayer: "It took a lot of hard work, but it was worth it!" Racheal Comstock: "It took a lot of time and hard work, but it was worth it. Hardships make memories and I will NEVER forget these." Edwin Gambito: "Yearbook is 10% perspiration and 90% white-out." Christina Kenney: "Whoa, I'm really glad it's over! Nobody can imagine the tedious work and extra hours that are sacrificed for the production of a yearbook — just ask any staff member!" Jon Foberg: "It was unforgettable, but I'm glad it's over."

Award Winning Sight

Write that down! Paste this up! Add five lines here, cut six there. What do you mean she doesn't know how to typeset? Sherri — quit putting on your makeup! Come on people, WE'VE got a deadline to meet!!"

Ah yes, the familiar sounds that can be heard during layout sessions of Shore Lines, the school's newsmagazine. Many times the staff did not get along — blood was shed, hair was pulled, and certain news editors were tortured. However, they managed to get things done.

Whether controversial, boring, or just something to read in Government class, Shore Lines has become a Bayside tradition. Students willingly give up their hard-earned quarters to read articles on such subjects as animal rights, phobias, credit cards, flag burning, and local school stories.

Linda "Calgon take me away" Cobb has successfully lead previous staffs to journalistic glory. Awards Shore Lines has received include International first place awards from Quill and Scroll, first place with marks of distinction in design, photography, art and graphics from the National Scholastic Press Association, and a trophy class rating from the Virginia High School League.

Impressed? Well there is more. The Columbia Scholastic Press Association gave the publication a Medalist ranking which represents their highest honor. The CSPA judge stated, "You have a fine publication. You have an excellent choice of topics and handle them well in your feature spreads — they are interesting, timely, and newsworthy."

Comments from the VHSL judge included, "Some of the finest writing by high school students I've seen in 20 years of judging!"

Yes, the gramatically error-free publication has won the respect of adults and children around the world. Perhaps, one day copies of Shore Lines will become collector's items. In any case, Ms. Cobb and staff, "You're makin' Bayside proud!!"

While Trevor Peterson and Eric Veihoef watch, Beth Kreimer shuffles through a stack of papers.

Creativity Brings Literary Magazine To Life

Who are the LIVE POETS, the ones you always hear about on the announcements? A group of students known as the LIVE POETS create and publish Bay Reflections, the award winning literary magazine. By gathering and compiling poetry, essays, short stories, art, and photography from students throughout the school, they bring the magazine to life.

Producing a magazine is not an easy task. First, they have to recruit students who are willing to stay after school very late. They have to do tedious work, such as typing, layouts, and paste-ups. After all the hard work and long hours, it is worth it to see the finished product.

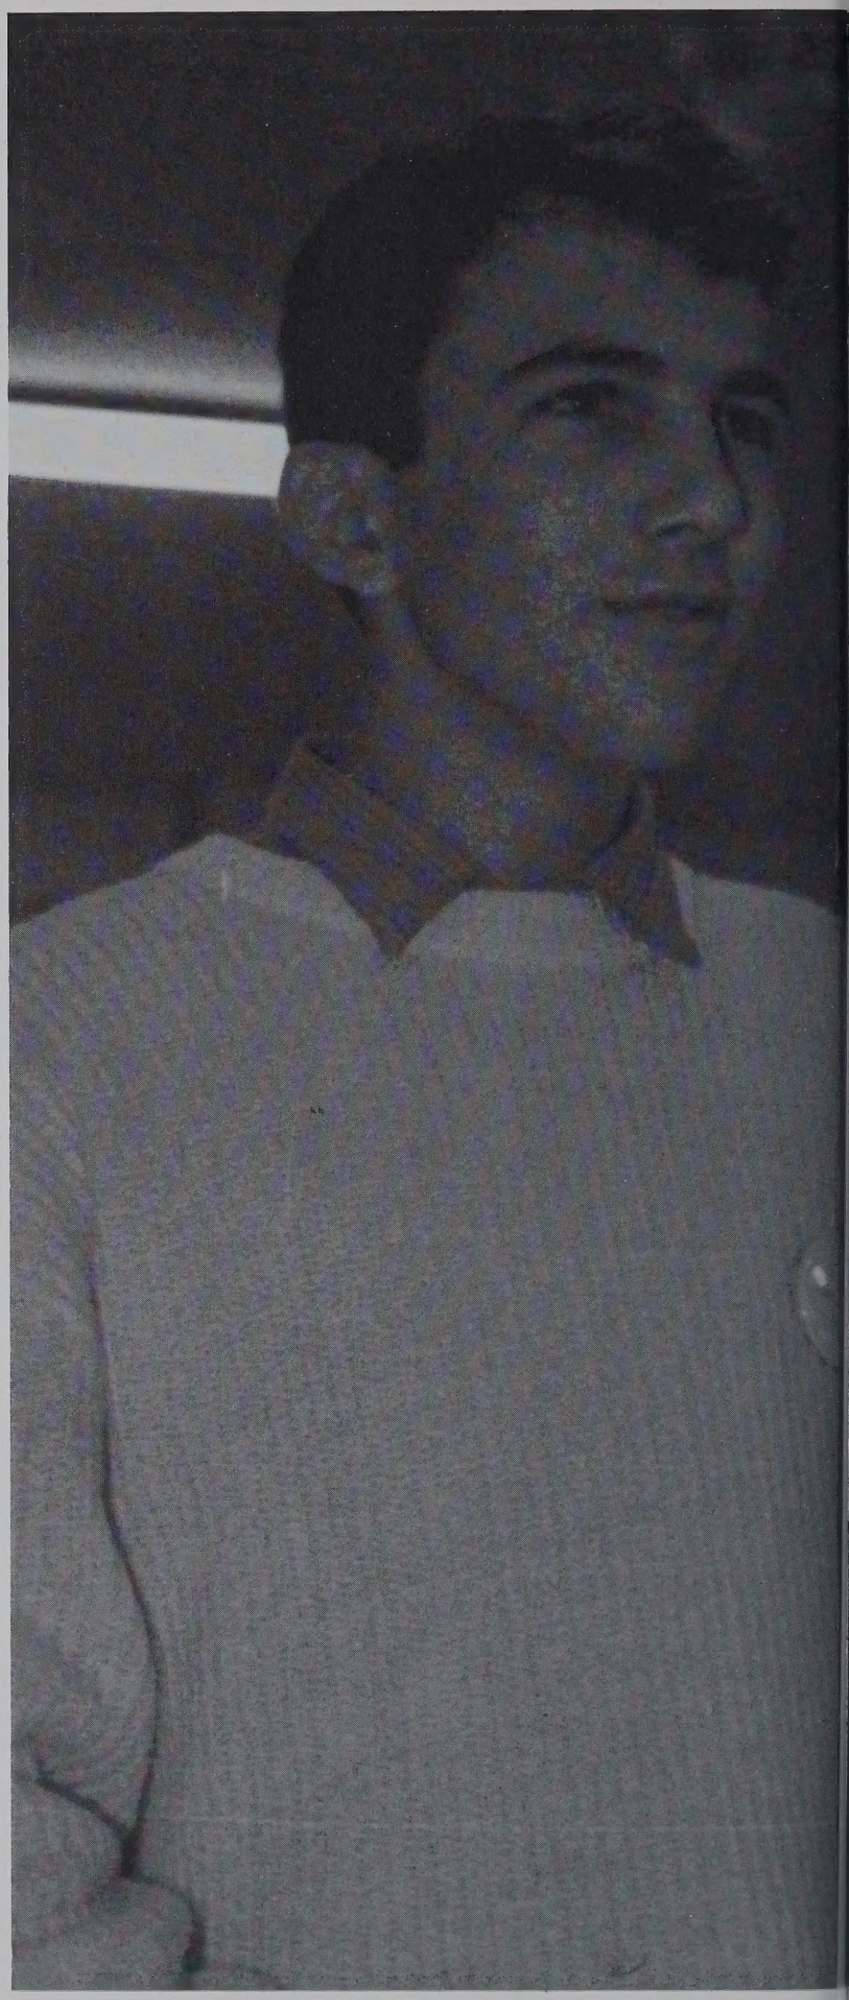
All the work did pay off in the past. The 1989 magazine won first place in the Virginia High School League Publications Contest. The LIVE POETS went to Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond last fall to attend workshop classes. In these classes they learned how to organize a magazine and how to write better essays, poetry, and short stories. They also explored new ways to use art and photography.

Bay Reflections is a reflection of the student body and their attitudes about life in general. This is what makes our literary magazine what it is!

Teams of Excellence

Some of the highest winning teams of our school are not sports teams, but the Debate Team and the Forensics Team. The Debate Team of the previous year had won the District, Regional, and State titles. This year, the team's goal was to defend these titles. And they did just that. The Bayside Debate Team was undefeated in the Tidewater area, winning over 100 trophies. In addition to being local champions, they also won awards at Regional and State levels.

At Bayside, the Forensics Team is public speaking at its best. Students from diverse backgrounds compete in the categories of prose reading, poetry, original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, dramatic interpretation, humorous interpretation, impromptu speaking. The Bayside team has become known in the Tidewater Forensics League as one of the top Beach schools. Perhaps former Forensics Team members will go on to illustrious careers in public speaking.



Both a Debate and Forensics Team member, Chris Dembitz displays his school spirit by wearing the school colors.

Promoting School Spirit

The Student Cooperative Association, better known as the SCA, is in charge of maintaining school spirit among the student body. Each homeroom elected a student representative to represent them at monthly meetings and on various committees. Debra Mott was a homeroom representative for Mrs. Edwards' second bell class. "SCA is a lot of fun. It keeps me busy and I get to meet a lot of people. One of our most challenging projects was trying to coordinate the Powder Puff football game. We waited, waited and waited for kickoff!" commented Debra.

Besides the Powder Puff game, the SCA was involved in many other activities. Some of these included coordinating the Scholarship Basketball Game, Awards Day ceremonies. Omnibus, and orientation, just to name a few. They were also responsible for heading the United Way Campaign and the Hurricane Hugo Relief Fund.

When asked about projects the SCA has in mind for next year, SCA Vice-President Chris Dembitz replied, "We hope for more projects to improve school spirit and to improve Bayside's image in the community."

One afternoon after school, Tori Reinhold and Chris Dembitz discuss an upcoming SCA event.

Develop Within . . . Share Throughout

"High school is a time of change, a time of adaptation, a time of personal growth. It is during this time of development that the foundations are laid for individuality, leadership, citizenship, and service," (quoted from the Key Club International Membership Card). The purpose of the Key Club lies within this concept. The Key Club is a service organization which strives to provide volunteer services for the school and the community and to produce good citizens in the world community.

The Key Club was a very active group during the year. In the fall, members volunteered for the Special Olympics to encourage handicapped children in various events. They also participated in the city's "Operation Sunburst" by planting daffodil bulbs around the school. During Halloween, the club traveled to the Children's Hospital of the King's Daughters to decorate the patients' door. The following month, Key Clubers gathered Thanksgiving baskets for a needy family. During the spring, they took part in the Red Cross Blood Drive and awarded two scholarships to graduating seniors. One can plainly see why the Key Club motto is "Caring . . . Our Way of Life."

Look for the Sparkles

The Black Culture Club has been a very active club at Bayside for the past several years. Its purpose is to teach its members more about Black culture and history. The club was very busy throughout the year. Some of their activities included the Who's Who in Black America contest, which was held during February's Black History month. One of the biggest events for the club was their production culminating Black History Month entitled Sparkles, Bangles, and Beads. The program was produced by Mrs. Renee Walker and was about music throughout history, starting in the 1920's up through the present time. "The students worked hard in making this a good show," commented Matthew Wooten, a member of the Black Culture Club.

DECA Is Busy Throughout Year

DECA, Distributive Education Clubs of America, is not only a composite of classes, but a club, too. Its purpose is to foster leadership development and civic consciousness and to promote vocational understanding and social intelligence to its members and to students.

DECA has been an active organization throughout the year. They have sponsored many activities and fundraisers, such as collecting for the needy during Christmas. They attended a District Leadership Conference, a State Leadership Conference, and an Employer-Employee Banquet.

When the club was not busy working, they had a Pizza Hut Party, and took an exciting trip to Busch Gardens. The president of DECA, Michelle Garrett said, "DECA is a club that involves everyone. We have done a lot with the club this year. They have improved DECA immensely through the leadership workshop programs. I feel in the near future that DECA will be a more significant part of our school."

A Look

Into the Future

The FBLA and the FHA are clubs with a common purpose — to instill business leadership to its members. These clubs sponsor many activities which are assets to our future homemakers and business leaders.

Future Business Leaders of America, or FBLA's, promote business education for the youth of Virginia. During the year, they collected food, money, clothing, and toys for a needy "Bayside family". After Christmas, they began preparing for regional competitions which were held in March. These competitions consisted of many tests which challenged the members' skills in activities such as accounting, parliamentary procedures, business, communications, business law, and economics. In addition, contests were held in public speaking, typewriting, shorthand, and poster design. The first place winner went on to the state competition in Roanoke in April.

The hard work and dedication displayed by these clubs were not unnoticed. Last year the FBLA chapter was awarded the Honor Chapter and Gold Seal Chapter awards.

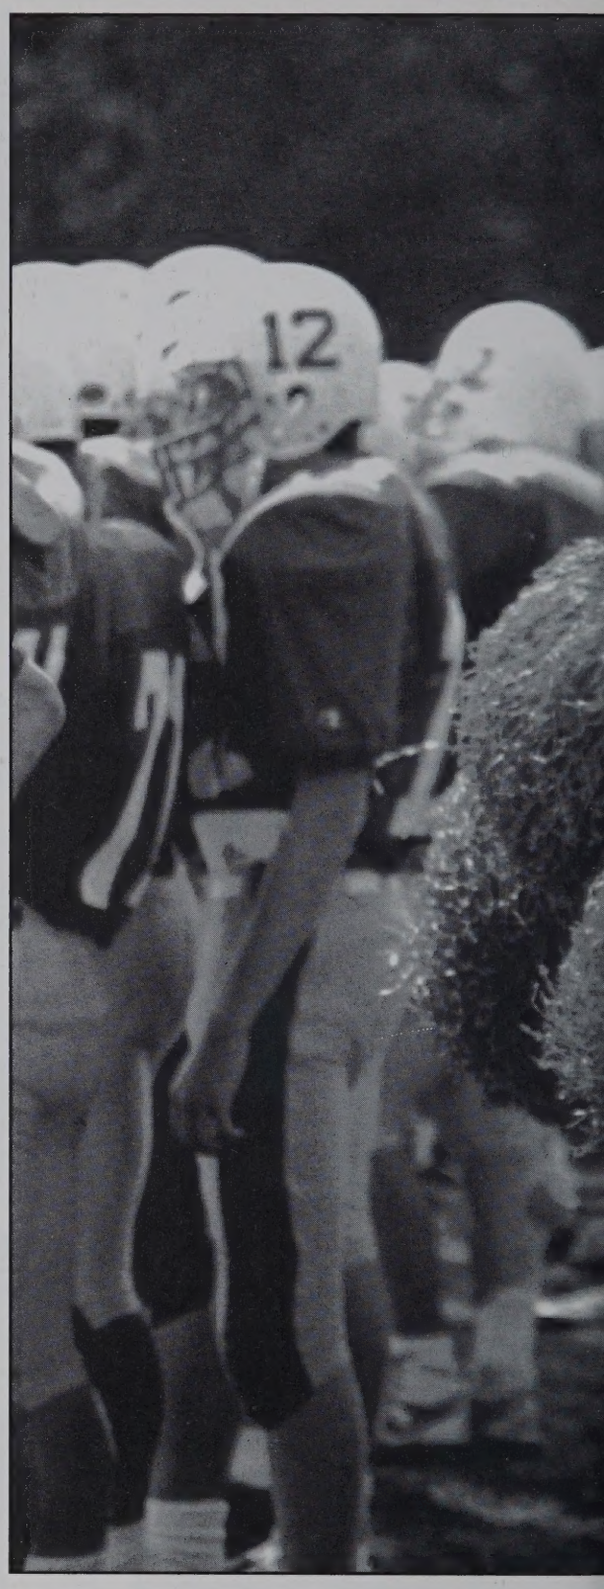
And ACTION!



Practice, practice, and more practice! Athletes sacrifice countless hours after school, during summer, on weekends, or on their own time. "We were one of the few schools that practiced for three hours after school each day," said one football player, Shawn Sandifer. With so many sweaty hours of practice, when do athletes have any time for their school work? "We had a study hall after school before practice to help the players with schoolwork," stated Daryl Cheatham, another football player. But why do these dedicated people give up their spare time? Well . . . to bring the spectators pride in their school, lots of spirit and action!

The Pride of Bayside

The crowds, the food, the loud cheers, the pom-poms, the helmets, and the pig skin . . . what else could it be but football.

Football on Friday night has always been a tradition, but not this year. Games were switched to Saturdays because of a shooting incident which happened at a Virginia Beach game in the beginning of the season. Despite this radical change, the Marlins played as great as ever.

Their victories included a great game against First Colonial where the Marlins came from behind at the start of the fourth quarter to lead 17 to 14.

This hard working team also shut down Maury, who were bound for the playoffs, in a victory of 20 to 13.

These and many other wins led the team defense to be ranked third in all of South Hamton Roads for the fewest points allowed per game at 11.4.

The team, despite its set backs, could always be found with the most school spirit at pep rallys and all throughout their season. They were a prime example of a group of students who always made Bayside proud.

Taking a Tour With the Kilts

"D-B-D!" screamed the group of girls standing on the field. Dressed in plaid kilts and gold polo shirts and armed with a three foot wooden stick, they quickly dispersed, habitually taking their designated positions.

Their chant, "DBD", echoed the banner that hung over the field. D-B-D stands for Dream-Believe-Do it, which, in short, was the inspiration for the team. "Coach always said that when we felt tired or discouraged to just look up at the sign and to remember what it stood for, remember that it symbolized all of our hard work and that we were on the field for the team — we couldn't let each other down," commented Holly Japs.

After playing together every day since the beginning of August several unplanned and unprecedented rituals were formed. "Taking a tour" as it was referred to, described the daily warm-up. With a different leader singled out each day, the team would line up in single file and run, skip, slide, and jump behind their leader who chose her own course and high steps while running in circles or spirals or waves.

Coach Wendy Gulden, a former Old Dominion University player, led the team both in skill development and mental preparations. "There were some days when Coach would acknowledge a slight uneasiness among the team and would call us all together, sit us down, and make us talk about whatever was happening or causing the distress — WE became a team because of her dedication and involvement. She wasn't afraid to tell us what she really thought. What Coach said and did really affected our attitude — she could make us feel great and at the same time make us feel guilty and upset — we were a moody team," explains Lisa Corprew.

Co-Captains, Amanda McKenney and Caitlin McMunn, led the team in spirit and by example.

The Action Behind the Tennis Scene

"Fore"

You could always hear the sounds of rattling clubs and balls being catapulted through the air. Consistent play — that's what Brett Pendergast says won him the State Championship title. It is also what won a great year for the Bayside Golf team. It was the most successful season since 1969.

Going to the State Tournament was a great accomplishment for the team. They finished sixth and Cory Reeves finished third. The team also finished second in the District and Regional tournaments.

Dedication — the Golf Team knows just what this word means. One member in particular that demonstrates dedication is Brett Pendergast. Pendergast says, "Throughout the season, on days we didn't have matches, I spent three to four hours either practicing or playing. This hard work paid off in the end."

Hard work — that's what it takes to make it to the top, but what is it that gives a winner his drive and determination? Pendergast says, "I play golf for the same reason I play any other sport, to win. If I play basketball, baseball, or soccer, I do my best to win and be on top; the same goes for golf. Besides, like the famous Chris Halsey once said, 'It's every girl's dream to go out with the captain of the golf team.' "

Consistent play, hard work, dedication, and the will to win — it makes a good player and it makes Bayside's Golf team even better.

Running for the Best

A small team of only five members with great drive and dedication. This fascinating group of young men spent hours of hard running to keep in top physical condition. They ran up to nine miles a day in order to stay strong. Their hard work payed off in their first wins over Green Run and Kellam. They faired extremely well compared to the other much larger teams.

Just as football and basketball team's have their valuable player, Cross Country had a valuable member of the team — Tom Cooley. "The choice for best member of the team is easy. He always ran the best times and he cared about winning more than anybody," commented Jason Braley.

Their motivation can be attributed to the coaches, Mr. Bland and Mr. Mizenko. They were extremely important to the success of the team. The members would like to give a special word of thanks to Coach Mizenko for taking over when Mr. Bland could not finish the season.

Boys' Track helped once again to make Bayside proud. They won the Beach District regular season and they won second in the Beach District Tournament. They also won third in the Regionals and they sent many team members to the State Tournament.

Coach Turner considers the Sheppard twins to be about the most valuable members of field events. They placed first or second in almost every meet in addition to the Regionals and District competitions. Kenny Webb had a great first year doing the shot put. He put in a lot of extra time and practice which helped take him to the State Tournament.

Coach Turner commented, "After the first meet they all pulled together as a team. They believed in me and things I was doing, training-wise, and they believed in themselves. They team enjoyed, at times, participating. It was not strenuous, but I left it up to them to want to be winners."

Winners are never hard to find at Bayside. The Girl's Track team is made of some of these winners. Katherine Forbes placed fifth in the Regionals and went on to state competitions. Krystal Overton placed fifth in the District in the 55 meter dash. Coach Prather says, "They trained indoor all winter for a strong outdoor team and this gave them a greater sense of unity."

"S-P-I-R-I-T"

What does it take to make a great group of cheerleaders? A lot of time, effort, dedication, sacrifice, and most of all, school spirit. All were attributed to the elite group at Bayside.

The cheerleaders could always be found running around or dancing in their red-pleated skirts at pep rallys and football games. They are a dedicated group of high spirited girls whose support was received throughout the school.

The girls spent five days of their summer vacation at the National Cheerleader Association camp, at which their efforts were greatly awarded. They won superior ribbons everyday and they were voted "Most Spirited" by the other squads.

But these awards could never express the thanks deserved to this group of students. There were other efforts which were not recognized, but were always appreciated. They had two car washes, decorated the football field house before the first home game, made posters, and gave Gatorade to the players before their competition with Kempsville.

Practice was a very important asset to their successful season. They could be found after school rehearsing their jumps and cheers every other day since the ending of school in June until the closing of the season.

Not only did the girls support the team, but they always supported each other. They listened to each others problems, and lended ears during frightful moments. Beth Kreimer explains, "During the summer a lot of us had problems and we were all there for each other and willing to give a hug whenever it was needed."

Pep talk is what it is all about with these girls.

The Chase Is On

As you step into the gym, the crowd can be heard cheering. Choruses of "We Are Family" ring throughout the air. This year's family of three seniors, ten sophomores, and one freshman doubled their wins from the year before with 8 wins this year and 4 last year. One of the accomplishments that the team enjoyed most was that they defeated First Colonial, who was tied with Salem for first place in the district.

Practice is part of making a winning team. Lisa Corprew believes the team's favorite past time was running suicides or what Mr. Parker called their "Quarter Drills." She comments, "You could hear the moans from everybody on the team." Lisa thinks one of the worst ones was "The Chase," as it could be called. She says, "Mr. Parker would stand at one foul line and Ms. Moore would stand at the other foul line. Mr. Parker would roll the ball to Ms. Moore and we would have to try to catch up to it before Ms. Moore caught the ball. We would try to catch that ball until Mr. Parker and Ms. Moore got tired of rolling it. Can you imagine how long we would run sometimes?" It is this practice and determination that made a better year for the Lady Marlins.

Marlins Making History

The lights go off in the gym and the spotlight stands on one tall young man, as the coach introduces the team. The game begins and the enthusiasm builds to unreachable heights. The crowd cheers as this young man releases the ball and pops a 3-pointer.

What excitement, enthusiasm, and outstanding school spirit! What are we talking about? What else? The boys' basketball team. This dedicated group of fifteen boys put in long hours of hard work and determination to capture a title they highly deserved.

This year, the Marlin boys' made history. For the first time in 25 years, Bayside became the only Beach school to win the State Championship. After winning the Regular District, the boys went on to win the Eastern Regional Championship on February 27th against Deep Creek. This win advanced the Marlins to the State Championship game at William and Mary Hall on March 10th. It was here they made history and defeated the Hampton Crabbers and became State Champs.

Coach Ron Jenkins says that the most important thing to the team's success this year was defense. There was more height and a lot of team unity. Tim Carr, '90 says, "We are a lot closer than last year's team — family wise."

The team spent many hours after school practicing, which paid off against even their stiffest competitions, First Colonial and Salem. Coach Jenkins says, "It is the single most important thing to the entire season. It also requires being on time and being productive."

It's this practice, team defense, and team unity that brought the Marlins such a successful season, which will forever be remembered in the history of Bayside.

Wrestling Anyone?

Wrestling is a form of everyday horseplay to the average teenage male, but to a group of boys at Bayside it takes a lot of hard work to be a true wrestler.

Unlike most sports, wrestling is not based on a team concept, but is is rather an individual sport. However, Coach George Mezinko says, "There is not letter 'I' in TEAM. It really took a total effort to finish the season well."

Practice was, as in most sports, a very important asset to the team's success. In wrestling, practice varies form day to day, week to week. Coach Mezinko explains, "With such an intense sport (as wrestling) practices can range from 2 to 3 hours." Some athletes put in extra efforts with runs at night. Most Saturdays were involved with practices at the beginning of the season and then it became a personal day."

Coach Mizenko says, "The record is not impressive, but the end of the season makes us hungry for next year."

The coaches' support was often helpful in offering advice, setting good examples, disciplining, pushing during conditioning, congratulating, and appreciating the individual for who they are and what they can be.

Coach Mizenko explains, "Anybody can be a wrestler, but only a few try. The rewards are plentiful, but you have to work hard for them."

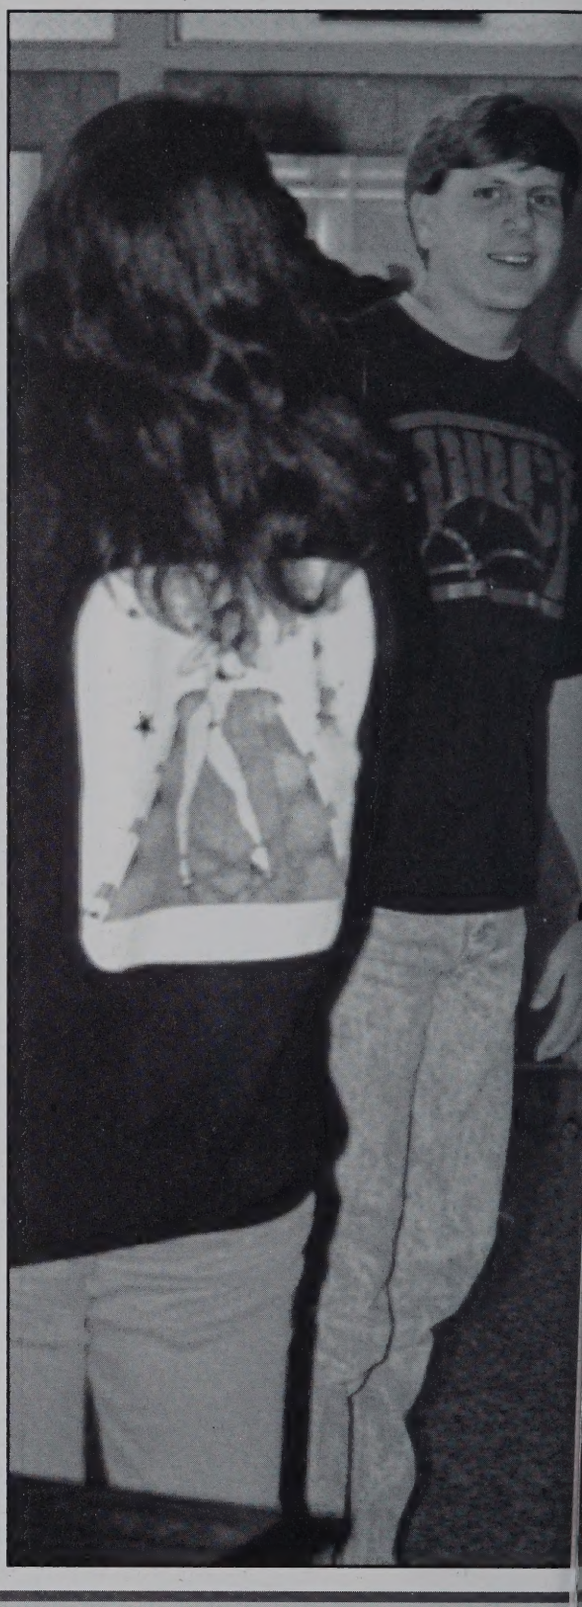
Cast MEMBERS!



Once the school doors open and the people walk in, the school quickly comes alive. It is the people which make a school exciting and lively.

A school is made up of a variety of individuals. There are the surfers, skaters, athletes, flower children, preps, class clowns, and many people who do not fit in one specific group.

All of these people are interesting because they are the ones who make school interesting and fun.

When many years have passed, when the students are old and grey, before they remember the football games, the long classes, the social "minutes" between classes, they will first remember the people.

Others Behind the Scenes

michelle,

wow, I actually found a place to write!! well this year has elapsed very quickly and we are rapidly entering the road horizon of our lives. (sounds good, don't it?) I had alot of fun w/ya at the beach last summer. I hope we can go again this year. we'll be partin' the cool threads & going to the killa' parties, right? Good luck to you and JOE! you're lucky to have such a great "main squeeze." Keep him!! If ya ever need to get out or ya need someone to talk to, ya know where I am.

Mr. Harden and Mr. Massey deliver plants to the Guidance Office.

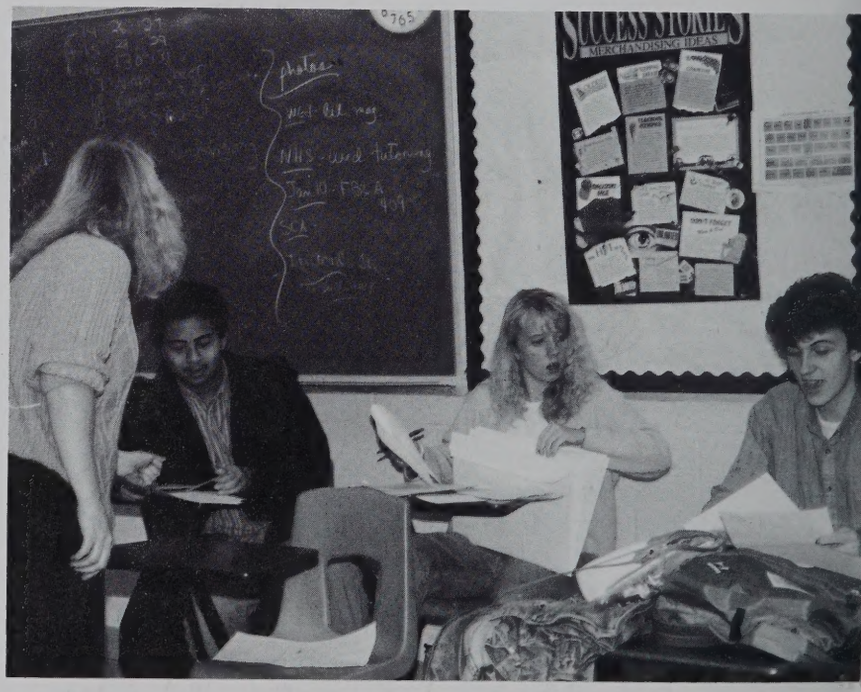
Donella Jones is surprised when the flash goes off.

Utter chaos during the day is typical of the yearbook staff.



Angie and Racheal Comstock finish their first sports layout.

Michelle, ☺

hey girl ▽ Well, I haven't really been able to talk to you much, lately this year. But, I wish we could. I think you're a really nice person. Remember in J.H., when you & everyone else (including me) went out w/ Ben. That was FUNNY ▽▽ I really hope we can get 2-gether this summer!

Call anytime!

Colophon

Volume 26 of Bayside High School's Mariner was printed by Herff Jones Publishing Company in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. The 1990 Mariner had a press run of 800 copies with 200 pages.

The cover is 9" X 10" white litho with scarlet and black applied. Cover artwork was provided by Herff Jones artist, John Sullivan.

The first 16 pages are printed on #80 Bordeaux paper. The remainder of the book was printed on #80 Ermine paper.

Chelsea light type was used for all body copy. Divider page headlines were printed in 48 point Chelsea Black, and all other headlines were 36 point. Body copy was printed in 12 point and captions in 8 point.

A special thanks is extended to Mr. Wayne Jones, our Herff Jones representative, and to Mr. Tom Knox, our Delmar Studios photographer.

Yo, It's the J cold chilling in EFFECT So you and me need to do something this summer. OK. Well I'm out of here like the alphabet see A B C e.e. Ya. T.P.

Michelle,

Wow, the year is over! Well, it's been real fun in lunch throughout the year. I must say, it's been one of the most interesting group of people I've ever hung around. Think about it, you've got a person from just about every walk of life. Am I right? well anyway, I wish you luck next year in graduating and I wish you luck in the years to follow. Don't change any!

Michelle

Hey whats up I know you know that Im Really infatuated over you. when we go out it will be great I'll treat you so nice - but u work to much so stay as lovely as ever and dont break my heart please

Dearest Michelle,
Well, I have to admit that the first day I saw you in my class, I thought I was goin' to die and then I had you in 2 classes. I mean you can't imagine what was going through my mind. Anyway, I'm glad I got to know you better and even thought I still don't have the nerve to ask you out. I still would like to go out w/ you. Anyway, have a good summer and may your life be like a roll of toilet paper, long + lasting

Your friend,
Chris

Michelle -
Hey this year was OK. Jon glad I ran into you in Biology class. Wednesday did not stay to [redacted] bad marcus did not stay to school starts well I hope you and Joe last. te will be back on school starts next year. Jon glad I got over Jon's stuff. Michelle,

Hi! Well, this year wasn't quite what I expected. Some good things did come out of it. For you, Joe, for me, Lee! Photo and print was pretty fun. Sometime soon, we need to have our 2 year Brady reunion. That's going to be fun. We can all look back on our Brady adventures with a smile! Of course, we can always think of Pizza Hut delivery with a smile! We all have some great memories. Hopefully next year will be a little better. Don't lose touch with me over the summer! I wish you and Joe the best of luck. If you ever need anything you know where to find me. Have a nice summer, but don't get into trouble! Ha Ha a'lil memento for ya!

Michelle...

So i quite say that the year has been keen... our groovy lunch periods & our wonderful locker! I am very joyously happy that we have become keeniest of buddies! I hope that we may continue the tradition throughout Summer & the everlasting future! Anyway, i realize ya don't have the rest of ya groovin' life to read this so i'll shall make it semi-short! I wish the truest of love for ya & Joe honi! So i shall let ya
